REVELATIONS IN HOUSE OF DAVID
COLONY CONTINUE*Young Wife Tells of Marriage Lottery
—Testimony Shows Girls 14 and 15 Forced Into Wedlock
With Youths*RUSHED MARRIAGES WHEN STATE STARTS INVESTIGATION

By Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Apr. 25.—Mrs. Helen Couch, former member of the House of David, today told the grand jury investigating charges of immorality in "King" Benjamin Purnell's Israelite colony that she chose Joseph Bailey, one of Purnell's followers for marriage in the lottery, but when the drawing was made another girl took the prize and she was forced to choose again. This time she selected David Couch, her present husband.

Youthful members of the colony have already testified regarding their marriages which they asserted violated the colony's rule. McRoberts' testimony showed one girl fourteen years old, and another fifteen who, with a number of others were rushed to the court house, for marriage licenses with youths of their choice when the state began to investigate the colony.

KILLING OF ROARK CAUSES MORE VIOLENCE AT CARY

The killing of G. L. Roark by negroes at Cary Saturday night has led to other acts of violence, according to reports received from there today. Boone Roark, father of the slain man, is said to have beaten a negro woman. A negro named Allen is said to have been slightly injured and chased out of the mining camp. Some shooting also occurred but no serious effects were reported.

The place is quiet now and it is not thought that there will be any further trouble. No arrests have been made for the alleged assaults which have occurred since the tragedy.

Four Ford Trucks Sold

Four Ford trucks of the six which were received by the Mott Motor company recently have been equipped with bodies and sold to business firms. Those to whom trucks have been delivered are: Bell County Lumber and Coal company, Ball Bros. Transfer company, City Delivery company and J. M. Gilley.

PROMINENT COAL
MEN HERE TODAY*John Hoffman of Cincinnati Says
Opening of Lake Season Will Make Market Better

John Hoffman of Cincinnati, vice-president of the Log Mountain Coal Corporation and president of the Kentucky Fuel Company and the Willis-Harlan coal company, is in town today in company with F. J. Silvers and W. H. Emerson, coal buyers from Omaha, Neb. The last two men are looking over coal in this district and intend to make some purchases.

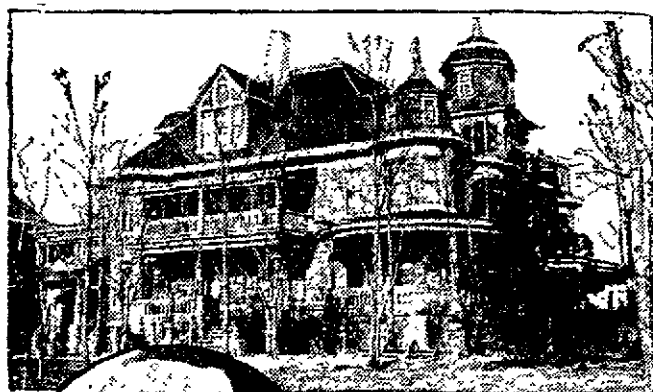

Mr. Hoffman spoke optimistically of the coal market, which, he says, is getting better all the time with the opening of the lake season. Bouts are already beginning to run there, he says, and there is quite a cargo of coal at the docks waiting for shipment now. The coal market here, Mr. Hoffman says, is about the same as elsewhere through the country, neither better nor worse.

Mr. Hoffman spoke also of improvements that are being made by the Willis-Harlan coal company's mine on Puckett Creek. A new tippie is being built, he said, and a shaker screen is being put in. Work there will be completed this summer.

Brother, Much Younger, Take Turns Driving

Galtner Bailey, colored, was slightly injured when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mae Ola Givens, daughter of William Givens, at the intersection of Lothbury avenue and Nineteenth street late yesterday afternoon. Bailey, bruised about the hips and partially stunned, was taken to the Broseer-Brummett hospital. He had recovered sufficiently to leave there this morning.

It is said that the Givens girl who gave her age as sixteen and her small brother, Theodore, had been taking turns at driving their father's car around the block during the afternoon. Bailey had started to cross the street when the car struck him.

AUTO COLLISION CASE OCCU-PIES COURT TODAY, DISMISSED

The case of J. A. Trammel, vs. Thomas Yarker was dismissed, with defendant paying the cost, in the circuit court this afternoon. The litigation grew out of an automobile collision which happened on Twenty-second street over a year ago. The case occupied almost the entire session of court today.

Judgment for the plaintiff was rendered in the case of the American National Insurance company vs. the estate of W. G. Colson yesterday afternoon. According to the evidence W. G. Colson had executed a note in favor of the plaintiff ten years ago and the suit was to recover on the note.

DATE FOR PRELIMINARY HEAR-

TED RUSH TRIES TO ESCAPE FROM JAIL*Cumberland Gap Boy Who Killed
Aged Father Runs Into Sheriff, Taken Back

TAZEWELL, April, 25.—Stolen liberty proved very shortlived Saturday night after Ted Rush and Reuben Williams had escaped from the county jail by prying a hole in the ceiling and lowering themselves to the ground with the aid of blankets twisted into a rope. The jailer was absent at the time of the escape.

As it chanced Sheriff Greer was scouting at the time for booze transporters in the very direction taken by Rush, who ran right into the arms of the sheriff who recognized the fugitive, although the recognition was not mutual. However, Sheriff Greer quickly introduced himself and the two executed right about face and Rush was soon safely behind bars. Rush is charged with having killed his father at Cumberland Gap several weeks ago.

Williams also enjoyed a brief holiday, for he was found by Deputy Greer son of the sheriff in a woodland not far away and returned to the jail and placed in a cage. Williams is accused of violating the bone dry law.

Cent Passenger Rate Reduction
Put Off Till January 1

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 25.—The order of the Interstate Commerce Commission requiring railroads to begin the sale of interchangeable mileage books with a twenty per cent reduction or regular passenger fare rates May 15 was revoked today and the effective date for the mileage books sale was postponed until January 1, 1924.

PLANS COMPLETED TODAY FOR SCHOOL VISITING DAYS

Plans were completed today for the parents' visiting day which will be in the nature of an informal reception at all the outlying schools for parents of school children tomorrow. J. W. Bradner, city superintendent, is very anxious that all parents will take advantage of the opportunity to get acquainted with the teachers and to see the work that is being done by the pupils.

For the entertainment of visitors a program has been arranged which consists of recitations and songs by the school children. All those who are interested in school work are invited to be present on visiting day.

MORE COOPERATION
IN CLEAN UP TODAY*Numerous Requests for Wagons, Cumberland Avenue Among Places
Being Cleaned

Numerous requests to the city for the removal of garbage which has been collected and piled up by the residents indicate that they are today giving more cooperation in the campaign. The two city wagons have been busy all day at the work. The prisoners load the wagons and the draymen hired by the city move it to the dumping ground.

The business section of town around the Nineteenth street and Cumberland avenue block is being worked today. Business men of the block have given hearty cooperation in the work by having their rubbish collected and placed in piles.

There are some cases of extreme filth however, on the part of apartment dwellers and as they have disregarded the notices given them by health officials the police department will enforce the sanitary ordinance. Some of these cases were brought to the attention of Chief H. E. Ball this afternoon and he has promised to investigate the matter.

The task of cleaning up Middlesboro is one of such magnitude that progress in the work is, of necessity, slow but it is being done thoroughly and it is thought that at least the central part of the city will be cleaned up this week. Reports from the outlying parts of town indicate that many residents are cleaning up their rubbish and disposing of it.

It is gratifying to note that the pile of slag which had become a familiar landmark near the intersection of Cumberland avenue and Twentieth street has been removed.

That section of the city around the Booneway Inn, the First M. E. Church and Dorchester avenue will receive the attention of the city cleaning force tomorrow. Residents of this section are urged to pile up their garbage and notify the city hall so that wagons may come for it.

The clean up campaign is being widely advertised by the Brown Amusement company which runs several colored slides between each performance at the local picture theaters.

ASK NEW DEPOTS
ON THIS DIVISION*Appalachia, Harlan, Wallins Creek and Barbourville Petition New Stations

Agitation for four new depots on the Cumberland Valley Division of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad is being pushed, but none of the new depots have been authorized and it is not known which of them will be, or what kind of buildings will be erected if they are authorized.

Appalachia is asking a new depot because the one there burned last fall. This will probably be granted as the city is almost without any station. Harlan is asking a new passenger depot and an improved freight depot. If not an entirely new one. Plans for building new depot at Wallins Creek and also for enlarging the old one have been submitted. Then Barbourville is asking a new depot there to replace the old one.

TOM GILLAM ADJUDGED INSANE THIS MORNING

Tom Gillam was adjudged insane by a jury over which J. G. Forrester, circuit judge, presided and papers committing him to the Eastern Hospital at Lexington have been filed out.

The patient who is about sixty-five years old seemed obsessed with the idea that he must baptize some one. He is said to have accosted a number of school children before they entered the building yesterday and asked if they were Christians. He told them he would perform the baptismal rites. He was finally lured to the city hall by being requested to come there and preach to the prisoners.

Twenty-three candidates were initiated at the High Split lodge recently organized by local Oddfellows Saturday night. The degree work was done by the Evans lodge.

FOREST PROTECTION
WEEK IS OBSERVED*April 22-28 Set Aside by President—
Rules Compiled by L. M. U.
Forestry Head

In accordance with the proclamation of President Harding, Forest Protection Week is being observed through out the United States this week, April 22 to 28. The president's proclamation follows:

"Whereas, the preservation of our forests, Federal, State and private is essential to our industrial and commercial life, to our strength as a nation, and to our individual well-being, and

"Whereas, forest fires, which are largely the result of carelessness or thoughtlessness, continue to do great damage, threatening to deplete and reduce our forests to the point at which they can no longer serve the nation adequately as a source of timber supply or for watershed protection and recreation, and

"Whereas, the annual observance of Arbor Day in the States, and the interest in forest prevention which has resulted from Forest Protection Week heretofore have done much to awaken the people to the importance both of planting trees and of perpetuating the forests that are already established.

"Therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, President of the United States, do urge upon the Governors of the various States to designate and set apart the week of April 22-28, 1923, as Forest Protection Week, and wherever practicable and not in conflict with State law or accept custom, to make Arbor Day fall within the same week; and public instruction, commercial and other associations, and the press to unite in thought and effort for the preservation of the nation's forest resources by conducting appropriate exercises and programs and by publishing information pertaining to the waste from forest fires and ways of preventing or reducing such losses, in order that our forest may be conserved for the inestimable service of mankind."

The following rules have been compiled by Prof. Walter F. Jones, head of the L. M. U. forestry department, to guard against forest fires which have devastated the forest of this section to such an appalling extent:

1. Matches—Be sure they are out. Pinch them before throwing them away.
2. Tobacco—Do not throw cigarettes or cigars into brush, leaves or needles. Drop them on a bare spot and step on them.
3. Making camp—Build only a small fire. Make it in the open, never against a tree or log.
4. Leaving camp—Be sure your fire is out. You may want to enjoy the spot at some future date.
5. Brush or clearing fires: Never start brush or clearing fires in windy weather.
6. Fighting fires—"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" but if you find a fire do all you can to put it out.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH REVIVAL

The Christian church was almost filled last night at the revival services to hear the Rev. Joel Lee Jones speak on "One Astring—Is It You?" The sermon was pronounced by one minister who heard it the best he ever heard on the text.

"A Woman and Her Money" is the sermon subject. After the regular service a special meeting of the church will be held at which time the evangelist will recommend plans for securing the largest possible cooperation and efficiency. A committee of workers is visiting today for the purpose of securing unanimous attendance of church members tonight. An enthusiastic interest in the meeting is being shown in the church and forces are organizing for an aggressive campaign.

Evangelist Jones will have a busy day tomorrow. He will speak at the high school at 8:15 a. m., at Lincoln Memorial University at 10 a. m., attend the Kiwanis meeting at noon and speak again at 7:30 p. m. A large delegation from Pineville and the local lodge of Oddfellows are expected to attend services tomorrow night.

HOLES IN STREET IMPEDE FLIGHT OF LAW VIOLATORS

With bullets flying around it a Ford led the police automobile a merry chase at 2:30 o'clock this morning but for once the rough places on the street served a useful purpose and the Ford was brought to a halt with a broken radiator at the corner of Chester avenue and Twentieth street. Two white men succeeded in making their escape from the car but May Gray, colored, was caught.

It was near the railroad yards that Herbert Ball, night officer, became suspicious of the occupants of the Ford. When he approached in his car the chase began. He fired at the fleeing car with his revolver but this had no effect. It was the holes in the street that stopped the Ford. The woman is held at the jail on a charge of disorderly conduct. The Ford, a native of Tennessee according to its license, is also held at the jail. The woman says she does not know the names of the men.

FOR A BETTER MIDDLESBORO
Specific improvements make up the details of a campaign for a BIGGER AND BETTER MIDDLESBORO, and a list is to be compiled of these details, for use from day to day. Today we are advocating:

- That a general movement for street improvement be instituted immediately, with emphasis on repair and construction of Cumberland Avenue.
- That a system of street marking be devised in this city so that a stranger or for that matter, a resident, can find his way around without undue inquiries.
- That the spiritual side may not be neglected in the campaign for a Better Middlesboro, but rather that we should emphasize the importance of building spiritually as paramount to any material improvement.
- That Middlesboro's lack of a fitting burial place be remedied and provisions for a city cemetery be made.
- That every citizen of Middlesboro lend his wholehearted help in the Clean Up, Paint Up, Plant Up Campaign to be launched by the Woman's Club next week.
- That steps be taken to provide for an adequate athletic field for Middlesboro.

HEALTH, WEALTH AND HAPPINESS; GAIN THEM ALL THROUGH MUSIC

CLEVELAND, April 23.—With music—
You can tap the vast resources of your subconscious self.
You can soothe your pains.
You can treble our appreciation of life.
You can almost control your destiny.
So says C. C. Birchard, music publisher of Boston, who spoke to the music supervisors' national conference here.
"Consider the case of Dr. Emil Cohn," Birchard told me. "I believe he rather lost out with the American public. Why?
"His theory is sound basically. He says there is a point midway between our conscious self and our subconscious self, and that just before we fall asleep we pass through that stage, which is the closest we can reach to our subconscious self.
"But he didn't explain how we may reach that state. Some think he doesn't know. I believe he must. But he didn't explain to us.
Music Does It
"Now we come to music. Go to a concert, and opera. Listen. Allow yourself to be carried away with the music. Live it. Breathe the spirit of it. If you do this you will find yourself in a deep state of consciousness.

C. C. BIRCHARD

"You will feel almost—as if you are leaving your body. But don't allow yourself to go to sleep. Tell your conscious mind: 'I will not go to sleep.'"

"But you will be close to your subconscious mind, that strange thing that is nine-tenths of us. Reach that stage and you can talk to your subconscious self."

"You can determine to do such-and-such a thing, and you will be filled with the tremendous power of your body to accomplish it."

Possible Without Music
"But," I asked, "can a person reach this state of mind without music?"
"Of course. But not so easily."

He told of a friend complaining of a sore shoulder. They met in a hotel lobby.

"I took him over to where an orchestra was playing—for it doesn't make any difference what kind of music it is, it could even be a march—and told him to allow himself to be carried away with the music."

"Then when he had done that I had him repeat tune with the rhythm of the music: 'Health, peace, tranquility.' The pain left him."

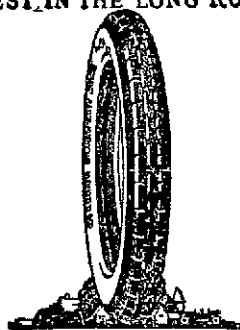

"It all resolves itself into the law of vibrations. Everything centers around vibrations. And the vibrations of music act on the muscular system or man."

DODGE BROTHERS TYPE-A SEDAN

Its dependability is taken for granted—its economy of operation is proverbial.

Comment, as a rule, is directed to the richness of its fittings, and the dignified beauty of its coach work.

This beauty is not a superficial thing. It goes much deeper than mere external adornments.

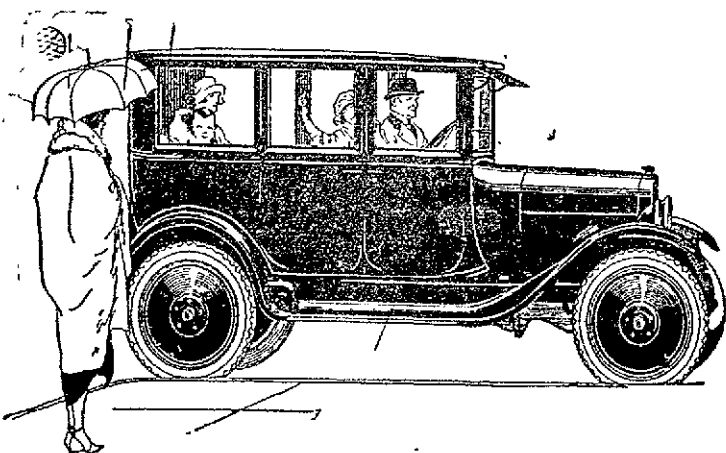

Like all creations of genuine excellence, it emanates from the honest value which Dodge Brothers have built into the car.

You sense it in the depth and comfort of the seats—richly upholstered in genuine mohair velvet. It makes itself known the instant you close the doors—which snap solidly shut, like the doors of a safe. It emanates unmistakably from every line and curve of the sturdy body.

It becomes most evident when you discover that in smart company, where a car of less distinction would appear at its worst, Dodge Brothers Type-A Sedan appears at its best.

DIVORCE GAIN NOT REDUCING HAPPTINESS?

NEW YORK, Apr. 20.—It looks as though Dr. Katherine Bement Davis and her little packet of figures were going to create an awful havoc in the camps of the gloom throwers.

Just about the time that the movie folks and the current novelists and the divorce reformers had convinced us that everybody was mated up wrong and every married woman was languishing after some other woman's husband, what does Dr. Davis do?

Why, as general secretary of the Bureau of Social Hygiene here, she takes her pen in hand and writes to a thousand and different married women to ask them what they themselves think about it! And 572 women of the thousand write back that they're perfectly happy and would change their Johns and Lesters and Corneliuses for anybody else in the world.

And the second blow fell when it was discovered that 70 per cent of the women who replied were college graduates, intellectuals who can solve quadratic equations and who ordinarily aren't supposed to be able to get along with anybody. In fact—

"The figures prove conclusively that college women make the happiest marriages," says Dr. Davis.

"The reason is obvious. Three things go to make up married happiness: his conception of happiness, her conception of happiness and the way their two conceptions fit in together."

"The college woman has been trained to look at things in their proper perspective. If her husband insists on having ham and eggs for breakfast when she's always had oatmeal, she's not going to wear out her nerves and wreck her married life trying to make an oatmeal addict out of him."

"Moreover the college woman has a variety of interests. When annoyances arise in the home, as they are bound to do, she can turn to her other interests and the annoyance does not seem nearly so acute."

While Dr. Davis does not recommend trial marriages or other violent amendments to the existing custom, she does think that it would be a good thing if engaged couples were compelled to breakfast together for a number of mornings before entering definitely into matrimony.

Dr. Davis is now collecting data through a questionnaire concerning the sex life of unmarried women. Of the first 500 who have submitted answers to the questionnaire, 379, she states, have admitted that they are happy, another blow to the Freudians. Thirty-seven of the 500 said they were fairly happy, 32 declared they were definitely unhappy, 19 answered they were neither, and 33 failed to commit themselves.

The figures show that the largest number of women who had repented themselves as happy, had married between the ages of 25 and 29. There was twice as much unhappiness as happiness in the group that married between 15 and 19.

Two is the number of children found in most of the happy families, according to the figures.

- 3 tablespoons butter
 - 4 tablespoons flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - 2 cups stock (water in which chicken was cooked)
 - 2 egg yolks
 - 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
- Melt butter, add flour salt and pepper, and pour on the stock slowly. Do not allow it to boil after the egg. Cook until smooth and thickened, add egg yolks and beat until smooth, but is added. Add to this sauce one-third cup each, cooked peas, carrot, and celery. Sprinkle chicken and sauce with the chopped parsley.

LEAGUE ISSUE BE OVER BY 1924

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Do not take for granted that the League of Nations will be the outstanding issue in next year's presidential campaign. It may be out of the way by that time.

This significant statement, made by a nationally prominent Democrat, represents a political view, heretofore overlooked in the wave of speculation now centering on the 1924 presidential race.

The man responsible for it refuses to allow his name to be used. Anonymously, however, he makes this analysis of the situation:

"Three things are worrying the Republicans: first, the League of Nations; second, what will Mr. Wilson do? Third, what about McAdoo?"

"The Republicans are doing all the worrying. They are doing all the talking and speculating about the Democratic candidate and the issues; the Democratic candidates mentioned have all been mentioned by Republicans."

Cecil Starts Talk

"Lord Robert Cecil's visit, coming on the heels of Attorney General

Daugherty's prediction that President Harding would be renominated by the Republicans, has focused attention on the League of Nations. Now President Harding indicates he is ready to put through the International Court of Justice, a move which many describe as getting into the league through the back door. And, as a shock to Republicans, along comes Senator Pepper, Republican, talking League of Nations."

"So why take it for granted that the league will remain an issue a year from next November? We may be in it before then—in the league, one way or another. In the Senate there are now 42 votes for it. Only 22 more are needed, which may be easily obtained for the international court at least."

"The big issue next year more likely will be the Republican record—the tariff and the foreign policy, the failures of Hughes and of Hoover. Can anyone doubt that Hoover especially has been a tremendous disappointment—going into office with an enormous following, which is now practically entirely alienated?"

Candidates? Democrats aren't talking about them. The Republicans are putting them up for us—Senator Underwood, for example.

"Former Justice Clarke, who resigned to lead the League of Nations fight, is talked of. His health alone probably would count him out."

"Republicans are wondering whether Mr. Wilson is going to take an active interest. That is for him to say. They are worried more about McAdoo than about Cox, the 1920 candidate."

"There is talk of Governor Smith of New York, Senator Ralston of Indiana, Senator Edwards of New Jersey. Some talk of Bryan, others have mentioned Bernard Baruch, war industries head, and everywhere there is talk of Henry Ford."

"Tammany in New York is against A. Smith. They are against Baruch, too, or anybody he is for. Besides Smith is a Catholic and Baruch is a Jew."

Ralston's claim to fame is that he beat Beveridge, a famous Republican in a Republican state in a Republican because he is wet. As for Ford—nobody knows what to think of him."

A THOUGHT

Smile a scorner, and the simple will beware; and reprove one that hath understanding, and he will understand knowledge.—Prov. 19:25.

The improvement of the understanding is for two ends: First, our own increase of knowledge; secondly, to enable us to deliver and make out that knowledge to others.—Locke.

THE CITY MAKES A MOVE

Impatient Middlesboro citizens have received with enthusiasm the news of the passing of an ordinance for resurfacing and reconstructing Cumberland Avenue. The vigorous protest of the people which has been increasing in volume for weeks against the continuance of the present rapid deterioration of the streets has at last secured from the city council this splendid action, and it is now time to boost and pull for carrying out the city's plans.

We are assured that bids for repair on Cumberland Avenue will be advertised by May 15. No time is to be lost. These good spring days are slipping by and summer is on. If there is any means whatever in the city's power to hasten this matter and rush the work, it ought to be done.

We want the officials of the city to know that we are anxious to see their program carried to a quick conclusion. If there is anyway any individual or organization can help, let that help be sought and secured.

Action, quick, definite action, in repairing the main thoroughfare of our city is demanded by every taxpayer and every citizen. The city officials have now made their move, and it behooves us all to let them know we are for them in their effort.

ANONYMOUS LETTER MAKES GRAVE CHARGES

The Daily News is in receipt of an anonymous article signed "A Christian Citizen," which makes some startling charges against county and city officials and a certain individual which the writer designates as "The Bootlegger King," saying that the killing Sunday night was indirectly the result of existing conditions here. Nor does this letter stop here but goes on to further charges, winding up by calling our city government a "mass of rotten politics."

We trust that these charges are exaggerated. At any rate we can never and do never publish an article whose authorship is unknown. Some of our Open Forum letters are unsigned when printed, if the writer requests, but we do not print them unless we know the author. If "A Christian Citizen" knows the facts to exist that he described, he had better get in touch with the grand jury and back his charges with his own identity.

THE OPEN FORUM

Spitting In Public Places
EDITOR DAILY NEWS:

In a good many cities and towns of the United States laws have been passed prohibiting spitting in public places, and I believe that such a law should be made general for the health of the people. Persons with tuberculosis and other diseases spit anywhere on sidewalks or street, then, after a few hours or days, when the spit dries and dust-storm, like on Saturday and Sunday comes, it will be taken up in the dust and blown into the eyes, ear, nose or mouth of people who happen along. Then they get ill and wonder where they caught their ailment.

People argue that stomach trouble, flu, fevers, tuberculosis, and such are not contagious. Certainly not, but they are infections, and by eating or inhaling we take into our system all manner of germs.

Such places as restaurants, pool-rooms, depots, elobrooms, dance-halls and courtrooms are where you are most likely to catch diseases. Spitting should certainly be prohibited in such places to protect the public health.

I believe about ninety per cent of people indulge in promiscuous spitting, although it is an ugly, impolite, discourteous and unhealthy habit. It is unhealthy, first, because it takes the saliva from the mouth and the food taken in is not properly masticated, then, because it spreads disease.

I have noticed people in my life turn away from the grate and spit on the floor, and I believe such people are ill-bred and need to go to school and study the laws of health. I have seen men in public places spit in the corner or behind something where they think it would not be noticed, but where it would be found and be much harder to clean up.

Now I have been a spitter nearly all my life but I have been careful when ing any individuals, but I believe we and where to spit. I am not condemning all to be a little more careful and polite about it and thereby save the health of the people.

Sincerely yours,
C. C. Smith

OPTIMISM PREFERRED
♦ ♦ ♦ By Berton Braloy ♦ ♦ ♦

There are times in every species of existence
When the game of life seems scarcely worth the while.

When your hopes and dreams all vanish in the distance
And your luck is unexceptionally vile;

When your labors cannot get you any gains out
Of whatever is the business day.

Still, if I were you I wouldn't blow my brains out.
For tomorrow is, you know, another day!

Though you cannot see much prospect of improvement,
Though the sky with heavy clouds is overcast,

Though the stocks that you have purchased show a movement
Which is downward, and they're dropping very fast;

Though when you would rather buy it always rains out.
And it's sunny when for rainy days you pray;

Still, if I were you I wouldn't blow my brains out.
For tomorrow is, you know, another day!

Though the only thing that's waiting 'round the corner
Is misfortune with a visage that is grim,

Though your wife takes all your earnings to adorn her,
And then beats with your fondly trusted chum,

Though you long to cut your troubles and your pains out
By a method that'll finish all your sorrow;

Still, today you hadn't better blow your brains out,
For you may prefer to hang yourself tomorrow!

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CONTINUED

The impression of sex difference lasted but a moment. I told myself that I was a silly, foolish woman that my husband did not mean anything particularly against me, he was only annoyed because he might be expected some business complication in Sydney's letter and did not want me to worry about it.

The waiter pulled out my chair and asked solicitously, "Will Madame have fruit?"
"Did not my husband ever break fast," I asked, again feeling irritated. Jack had always ordered the meals up to this. The simple negligence took upon itself the importance almost of an insult.

"Only for himself, Madame," came to my ears in obsequious tones.
I had a terrible sinking of heart. Jack must be greatly worried over something or very angry at me.

"I will have a cup of coffee only," I knew my voice was trembling.

Jack paid no attention whatever to my conversation with the waiter. He was scowling intently upon his letter. Consequently, when the coffee came I could not swallow.

With a great effort I murmured, "Jack, you must excuse me," I waited an instant for him to answer and then left the table precipitously. I knew if I did not I should burst into tears in a public dining-room.

I walked unseeing out the door, and to my mortification, abruptly bumped into the hotel clerk who must have seen my agitation. At last I found my way to my room and threw myself on the bed with a feeling that my whole world was rocking.

I wonder if every bride feels that life is ended after the first quarrel. I wonder if there are any married people in the world who do not quarrel.

Jack and I had known each other for such a little while that we had not had the slightest disagreement in all the time of our engagement and here we were married only less than one month and both of us with hearts bursting with annoyance, if not actual hatred.

In whatever way we may patch up this difference, one of my most beautiful illusions is already dissipated.

Jack was very inconsiderate. If he had only said to me I must not open letters that had come to him from his men friends, I would have respected his wishes and this never would have happened. But the way he has acted in the matter makes me believe in his heart he thinks I have done something disgraceful, something no right-minded woman would do.

I think I have been very liberal minded with Jack. I did not ask him anything about his life before he knew me. I considered that was a closed book, but I think that after marriage the book should be open for the inspection of either one of the partners.

I know I have seen my mother often open dad's letters. In fact, she always took care of all correspondence that came to the house whether it was addressed to him or to her. I wonder if dad and mother had a quarrel before they came to that understanding?

In Samoa the natives wear very few clothes, the reason being it is too hot for Samoa.

THE POET

I have been singing alone,
Songs woven out of my days,
Sadness and gladness and praise—
Soft little songs of my own
One was a song of the Spring:
One was the song of a kiss;
Though the Spring was unheeding,
nor stayed with me long,
And the kiss was good-bye to the singer and song,
Both of them left with me this—
Something of beauty to sing.
One who passed by in the street
Lingered a moment to hear;
That was from your heart to my heart! he said—
Nay, I shall sing it when he has been dead
Many and many a year;
Others will find it as sweet.
I have been singing alone,
Songs woven out of my days,
Sadness and gladness and praise—
Soft little songs of my own

LONDON, April 25.—When the Duke of York marries Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, Thursday, the royal bridegroom will have three supporters and the bride will have eight bridesmaids. The bridesmaids are all friends who have known the bride for years. Two are relatives of the royal family, Lady Mary Cambridge, daughter of the Marquis of Cambridge, and Lady May Cambridge, daughter of the Earl of Athlone. They grew up with the king's children.

Lady Katharine Hamilton is the daughter of the Duke of Abercorn and has often been included in shooting parties in which the Duke of York and his bride-to-be were guests.

Lady Mary Thynne is the daughter of the Marquis of Bath.

The Hon. Elizabeth Elphinstone, daughter of Lord Elphinstone, and Hon. Cecilia Bowles-Lyon, daughter of Lord Glamis, are nieces of the bride. They will be the kids in the bridal party, being 12 and 11 respectively.

Hon. Diamond Hardinge is the daughter of Lord Hardinge of Penshurst. While her father was British ambassador at Paris, she acted as the official hostess.

The eighth bridesmaid's name came as a surprise to English people. She is Betty Cator, daughter of John Cator a former member of Parliament. She is the only one of the eight bridesmaids who hasn't a courtesy title. She is an intimate school friend of the bride and they made their debut together.

Three of the bridesmaids, with the present bride, acted in a similar capacity at the wedding of the Princess Lady May Cambridge, and Lady Mary Thynne.

The Duke of York's three supporters will be his brothers, the Prince of Wales, Prince Henry and Prince George.

WEEKS OF HARD WORK MAKE FOR SUCCESS STROLLERS PLAY

The work of the Strollers play "Lady Windermere's Fan," is shown when the story is presented by an excellent cast who have worked hard behind the footlights and now appear for the entertainment of the audience after weeks and weeks of hard practice but all the workers that have contributed to the finished product do not appear and very seldom is the carpenter, the property man, the electrician, the stage manager, the business manager, publicity staff, director or president seen on the stage or known to the public or student body.

This year a staff composed of President Hearnin, Director Burks, Stage Manager G. K. Smith, Business Manager, John Albright, Secretary Kitty Comor, and members Bill Tate, Mary Peterson, Ann Hickman, Bettie Babbour, Helen King, have worked out the difficulties of the year's work and regular reports have been made. A rehearsal schedule has been published weekly by Jimmie Chapman. It takes hard work on the part of the designers of the scenery and stage setting and costumes and a great many hours are spent in executing the designs. One of the attractions of the Stroller's productions of several years has been the lighting and scenic effects and these are in charge of Henry Harper and his assistants, Bill Tunks and H. Cudgel.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Congressional junkies often have been branded as "rummy" affairs, but it remained for the recent cruise of the navy transport Henderson to Panama and the West Indies to win the honest-to-goodness sobriquet of the rum junket.

The Henderson, it should be pointed out, traveled with full diplomatic immunity as to search and seizure of spirituous liquors prohibited by the Volstead act. She was a government ship, carrying for the most part government officials. She sailed from and returned to the Washington navy yard, and departing guests were free to send a-hot hand-bags, trunks and other packages without being spied on or queried about inquisitive revenue or prohibition agents.

Wherefore, out of the 70 members of Congress, lame ducks and newspaper correspondents and photographers who made the trip on the Henderson, the large majority took advantage of the opportunity to bring in, for medicinal or other purposes, liquors and stimulants to the limit imposed by their consciences and pocketbooks.

One of the best informed of the junketeers is authority for the statement that there were just five men in the party who did not bring in at least a few bottles of booze. One member of Congress had an entire trunk full. Another was reported to have returned with three trunks more than he started with.

Junketeers who did not care for liquors or who could not bring their consciences to permit their playing rum-runners on a government vessel got a milder thrill by loading up at Havana with fine cigars which came through without paying Uncle Sam any duty.

Yes it certainly was both a rum and rummy junket!

Lieut. Jimmy Woodruff, one of the army fliers who took part in the flight of six planes from Kelly Field, Texas, to San Juan, Porto Rico, is a bug for baths. He just must have his daily dip, whether he has been traveling by sooty sleeper or up in the supposedly pure cerulean.

So when the squadron landed on the edge of a southern bay before taking off for the over-water jump, Jimmy meandered down to the water's edge and prepared for a good swim. Just as he was about ready to jump in, an old negro showed up. Merely by way of making conversation Woodruff asked:

"How about it, uncle—any sharks around here?"

"No sah, no sah. Ain't no sharks 'bout here," he replied "De 'gators keep 'em all killed out."

Whereupon Woodruff decided that a swim wasn't necessary after all.

The movies still have one event to bring about before they can claim full social equality with the spoken drama. So far no presidential party has honored any movie theater—either in Washington or elsewhere. Somehow, attending the movies is still listed in the White House social register as one of the things that simply isn't done.

However, if Mahomet mustn't go to the mountain, he may have the mountain moved to Mahomet. And simply being elected president doesn't kill one's liking for the movies, whatever the conventions may rule.

All of which is a prelude to saying that the big east room of the White House was outfitted last week as a projection room and President and Mrs. Harding and a list of privileged guests were treated to the first showing of "The Covered Wagon," a historic film dealing with the opening of the great west. Which naturally rises this query.

"If the movies are all right to be shown in the White House, why isn't it equally o.k. for the president to attend movie theaters?"

MAN IS FORCED TO COURT HIS OWN WIFE

CHICAGO, April 23.—Facing John H. Dudley here is the most unusual problem of courting that ever confronted a lovelorn swain.

For it's up to Dudley to woo and to win his own legally wedded wife.

That sentence has been imposed on him by a Chicago court.

If Dudley's wooing wins—then wife, home and happiness will be his.

And if it fails—Mrs. Dudley will be allowed unrestrained to live at the home of her parents while Dudley in loneliness fries his own breakfast bacon and longs for the life that might have been.

How It Started

A few days ago Dudley and Helen Peterson, 18, felt the lure of spring, went to Crown Point, Indiana's Gettysburg, and were married.

But within a week married life irked the youthful bride. And Dudley found himself alone in his little flat. Straightway hastened Dudley into court. Helen's parents, he declared, were holding the bride incommunicado against her will. And the husband demanded a writ of habeas corpus.

Came into court the bride and her parents Mr. and Mrs. David Peterson, accompanied by the sheriff.

"I don't love John as a wife should," the bride testified. "I hadn't intended marrying him at all. But it was a nice day and I was passing his house on my way to work, so I thought I'd just stop in and say hello.

MRS. HELEN DUDLEY

"And he said: 'Let's get married.' It was such a nice day. I didn't feel much like going to work. So we went to Crown Point. I left him of my own free will a week later.

Then Helen's mother broke in. "The marriage was not the act of God," she interpolated. "Helen will get rid of her husband as quietly as possible, and go away as a missionary."

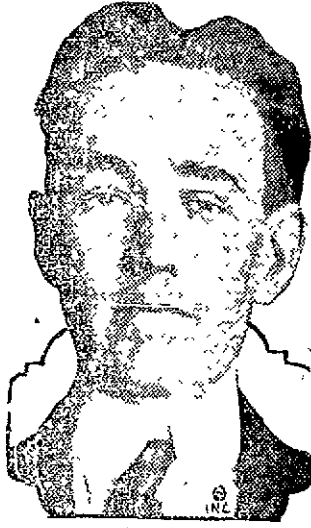

"Case dismissed," announced Judge Sabath. "I don't believe this girl is being held against her will. So I'm not going to issue any writ." And then—

"John, it is spring and love is in the air. Start courting your wife all over. You may send her flowers and candy and take her to the theater.

"Be gentle. Try the romance of Shakespeare. Caveman tactics will not do. Consider yourself a lover and not a husband. I give you one month in which to pay your court.

"Then come back here, both of you. Let me know then how you feel about the situation."

And now Dudley's playing Romeo.

CAMPBELL ROAD SYSTEM PUSHED

LAFOLETTE, Tenn., April 24.—Good roads enthusiasts here are beginning to realize their fondest hopes—a complete system of highways for Campbell county.

The connecting link of the Dixie Highway between LaFollette and the Anderson county line, via Jacksboro, seven miles long, is well under way. This stretch will be built 18 feet wide with a concrete surface and hand-placed stone base. Large construction crews are at work on this project and the contractors are putting forth every effort for its early completion.

At the recent session of the county court bonds were voted for the completion of the Elk Valley macadam road between Jellico and Caryville, a distance of 14 miles. This road when completed will give residents of that section a fine outlet especially the farmers, who under the present conditions are unable to market their products at a fair profit.

The 10-mile stretch of macadamized road leading out of LaFollette up the Little Powell's valley, which was completed but a few weeks ago, is being oiled. Quite a stretch of road which is not well adapted to pleasure riding and which connects this new road with a similar road out of Middleboro, is a project in regards to the early completion of which much anxiety is felt.

ALL PARTS IN STROLLERS

PLAY EXCEPTIONALLY TAKEN

"Lady Windermere's Fan" the celebrated play by Oscar Wilde which will be presented by the Strollers at the opera house here Monday night, April 28th, is one of the most attractive and interesting pieces to be seen on the stage today. Never were the Strollers so well prepared to take all laurels as they are with this remarkably literary selection.

Johnnie Burks, director of the Strollers, who made the remarkable record of giving without flaw the organization's great success of last year "The Thirteenth Chair" and then followed with that delightful "Ernani" of the early fall has given as his final work with the dramatic organization of the University, hours of hard work in planning and developing the production and cast for "Lady Windermere's Fan". It is his last and the Strollers say "must be the best". Another veteran Stroller who has worked for several seasons behind scenes is Gilbert Smith who will make his bow before the lights this year and demonstrate his extensive talents. Miss Eleanor Morse who has the difficult part of the adventuress, Mrs. Eryanne, appears for the third and last time with the Strollers this year.

Miss Frances Smith will, as has been announced take the part of Lady Windermere and opposite her will play Dan Morse as Lord Windermere. M. Heavron who last year did such excellent work as the villain has a prominent part in this year's play. James Darnall and James Chapman will come into the cast this year, critics say to stay, as long as they remain in the University and to Lucille Stillwell goes honors for her outstanding acting of the difficult part of the Duchess of Berwig.

DO YOU WONDER?

Asks This Lady, "That I'm a Believer in Cardui?"—Had Been So Weak She Had to Go to Bed.

Osawatimie, Kans.—Mrs. E. E. Keast, formerly of Illinois, residing here, says: "We moved to this state eleven years ago, and I had good health for a long while; and then some year or so ago I had a bad sick spell. . . .

"I got so weak I couldn't go. I couldn't stand on my feet at all. I had to go to bed. I suffered a great deal. I was so nervous I felt I couldn't live. I tried medicines, and everything; had the best of attention, yet I wasn't able to get up. I lay for three months, not able to do anything.

"My husband is a bill poster and has circulars distributed. One day there chanced to be a Ladies Birthday Almanac among his circulars. I read it, and told some of the family to get me a bottle of Cardui. . . .

"I quit all other medicines and took it (Cardui) faithfully, and two weeks from the time I began to take Cardui I was out of bed—better than for months.

"I kept it up and continued to improve until I was a well woman.

"Do you wonder that I am a believer in Cardui? I certainly am. And I am sure there is no better tonic made for women than Cardui."

In One Family Out of Every 15 the Bread-winner is a Railroad Employee

One million, six hundred forty-five thousand, two hundred thirty six men and women (average for the year 1922) are employed by the railroads of the United States in the great business of furnishing transportation. The average annual income of railroad employees is something over $1,500.00; while the average wage in all lines of industry is but $933.00.

According to the Census Bureau there are something over 24,000,000 families in the United States; and it is an interesting fact that in one out of every fifteen of these families the bread-winner is a railroad employee. From the standpoint of men employed and wages earned, no other industry in all America approaches that of transportation.

Because of the indispensable character of the roads to the general progress and prosperity of the country and of their direct importance to such a great number of our people depending upon them for their livelihood, you should be fair in your consideration of them and extremely skeptical of theoretical remedies based on complete falsehoods or half truths, proposed by radical editors and inflamed politicians. Get the facts; and you will find that the railroads are striving honestly and conscientiously to make a living just like anybody else.

Polarine

Is Made In Four Grades

but in only one quality. Different types of motors require different weights of lubricating oil, and in order to supply the finest quality of oil for every motor, Polarine is manufactured in the following weights: "Medium," "Heavy," "Heavy X," and "Heavy XX." The only difference between these grades is in their "body"—all of the oiliness found in the Heavy XX is also to be had in the Medium and other grades. There are two ways of being sure to get the right grade of oil for your motor—first, demand Polarine; and second, consult the chart of recommendations (on display at filling stations) so that you may be sure to get the proper grade for your car.

One Of These Grades Is Particularly Suited For Your Car

CROWN Gasoline
